Just because something is legal does not make it moral, ethical or right. Abortion is perhaps one of the most dramatic examples of a situation where something is legal, but is very much a sin against God and affront against mankind. Fight the pro-death forces today. Tomorrow your life may depend on it.

A prayer for Religious vocations:

Jesus, Eternal High Priest, we know that you call a sufficient number of men and women to service in your church as Priests and Sisters. May they be given the grace and courage to hear and answer your call. Please help parents to trust your call so that their sons and daughters can choose their vocation in life in wisdom and freedom. We ask this of the Father in your Holy Name. Amen.

The Feast of the Baptism of our Lord brings to a conclusion the Christmas season that we've been celebrating. The readings that we had today, if we listened carefully, we will find a summary of all that this marvelous, almost unbelievable feast means for all of us. First of all, we're reminded again of the extraordinary truth that God, the God who is transcended above and beyond all of creation, this God who is the source of all being, has become one like us, fully human, in every way except sin. Jesus tells John, "Let it be like that for now so that we may fulfill the right order." Jesus gives a hint because, though he is the Son of God, he wants to follow what he calls the right order. He, wants to be fully identified with us, with humans, with those who are sinners, those who are marginalized, oppressed, pushed aside. In the crowd that came to follow John and be baptized, there were people of every class, every order, every nationality.

There were Gentiles, there were Jews, there were rich, there were poor, there were soldiers, there were peacekeepers -- everyone -- and Jesus comes to be one with them, and therefore, with all of us. He is fully human, the Son of God but also the son of Mary. It's a mystery that is beyond our comprehension. We accept it in faith, that this God is one like us in every way, so he is our brother. He is our friend. He is part of our human family.

In the baptism of Jesus, as recorded in Luke's Gospel that we heard this morning, God says, "Here is my chosen one, my beloved, in whom I am well pleased." That's the first line of the Servant Song. Jesus would have known that song by heart. He knew the scriptures, so he would understand. This is his work, to transform the world, to make it the Reign of God where justice, peace and fullness of life come for all, are available to everyone.

Our whole universe will be transformed into the Reign of God. That's the reason why Jesus came. We, who are the disciples of Jesus, we now remind ourselves of this full meaning of Christmas. We first of all give thanks that God has become one of us. Jesus is our brother, our friend, to be with us in every way whenever we are in need in any way. Jesus has come to bring the word of God, the love of God, God's message, to all people everywhere ...

and to you and me.
